Business Rules for the Road Warrior

How to Retain Key Staff even when they're Miles from Home
Presentation Speech – 60 minutes, 90 minutes, Half or Full Day

The #1 career concern of business travelers is that “missing in action” means no one in their office notices their absence. You trust your business travelers with your best clients and most important projects. They need to know how to stay connected to their office so they are informed, recognized, rewarded, sought after, and remembered, even when they're on the road for weeks, months or even a year at a time. Since most top travelers are also your top achievers – put the solution in their hands!

How to Look and Act Like a Pro on Your First Business Trip

Presentation Speech - 60 minutes, 90 minutes, Half or Full Day

If you're starting a business career, you must be prepared to travel. Your experience as a business traveler can affect your self-confidence and the perception your colleagues and clients have of your professionalism. In this informative and fast paced program, Kathy shows her audience, no matter how inexperienced, how to look and act like a veteran business professional from the first day. She teaches them how to find alternatives and shortcuts to minimize the consequences of the inevitable delays and problems that occur to everyone who travels for business. Your audience will laugh while building confidence as Kathy reiterates her stories and tells how she learned to turn the worse travel nightmares into safe landings.

When you want your participants to hit the road exuding confidence, their bag packed with practical step-by-step processes to help them look like a business travel pro, book Kathy as your pilot.

The Journey to Success

Presentation Speech – 60 minutes, 90 minutes, Half or Full Day

Turns and hurdles arise in everyone's career. They can be treated as insurmountable obstacles or as opportunities for growth and advancement. Kathy Ameche's experience in different business roles, including senior officer of a Fortune 500 company, gives her the background to teach and motivate any business professional who can become stuck in a career rut or not sure of what to do next. Kathy will teach your audience how to recognize the proverbial silver lining in that business cloud—such as the opportunity for advancement offered the one who takes on that difficult assignment that no one else wants. Listen to Kathy talk of the unconventional decisions she has made throughout her career and how she turned them into success.

Kathy highlights the five keys to a successful career -- which you can learn either from Kathy or from possibly bitter experience! This program will give audiences a different perspective regarding their careers and move them to action.

Kathy speaks to organizations, universities and associations (large and small) who book programs to help their audiences pack practical step-by-step process to fly through turbulence whether it's their career, work life balance, leadership or communication skills.
